Many of the country papers are having a hard time to make expenses these dull times. We have in mind one first-class local newspaper in a good county seat, the only paper in the town, that is now carrying less than four columns of advertising out of 32 columns. The merchants of that town should wake up to the fact that a paper cannot live on such meagre patronage, and that it reflects on the town and its business men to have its paper go forth advertising to the world that it is published in a dead town.

Undue importance is sought to be given to the fight between two pre-bition members on the floor of the house last week, one of them a theological student. One of them made an uncalculated attack on Gov. Stanley, preferring charges the Governor denounces as maliciously false. The other resented this insult to the Governor and while on the floor did more or less washing of dirty linen, the two men being bitter personal enemies. Gov. Stanley's only connection with the affair was in being slandered by one of the men who disgraced themselves.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE APPEARS

With Fiance Thirty-Six Hours
After He Said Yes to The Question.

GAMELY MADE AN AFFIDAVIT

That She Popped The Question
The Evening Before St.
Valentine's.

The various presents offered by business men and others to the first Leap Year bride to present herself in Hopkinsville and make affidavit that she proposed to her husband, were on Tuesday paid to a Christian county girl.

Shortly after noon a youthful couple from Crofton appeared and said they were ready to be married and claim the donations.

Circuit Clerk Lucian Harris was too much excited over his own approaching wedding to take much interest in it, but Deputy Vego Barnes got busy and soon had things moving on schedule time.

While the license was being filled out, the couple went to the office of County Attorney Smith and made the following affidavit:

STATE OF KENTUCKY,
Christian County.

The affiant, Sallie Eldora Brown, states that she is seventeen years of age, and that she has been a continuous resident of Christian county, Kentucky, living near Crofton, during the whole of her life. She states that James Herbert Tweddell is 18 years of age and a resident of Christian county, Kentucky.

The affiant further states that on the 14th day of February, 1916, in the county and state aforesaid, on St. Valentine's Eve, she submitted her heart and hand to the said James Herbert Tweddell and asked him to accept her in marriage and that the said James Herbert Tweddell did so accept her.

The affiant, James Herbert Tweddell, states that on St. Valentine's Eve, 1916, he called at the home of Sallie Eldora Brown, in Christian county, Kentucky, and that she offered herself to him in marriage and that he accepted her.

In witness whereof the affiants have hereunto subscribed their names.

SALLIE ELDORA BROWN,
JAMES HERBERT TWEDDELL.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of February, 1916, by Sallie Eldora Brown and James Herbert Tweddell.

L. J. HARRIS,
County Clerk Christian Co.

Sam Frankel was summoned and took the couple, who had been issued the license with the permission of the bride's parents, in his automobile, accompanied by Judge Knight, to Richard Leavell's livery stable where the ceremony was performed in the doorway in the presence of a crowd that quickly gathered.

The mule donated by Mr. Leavell was placed in the background while pictures of the couple were taken.

Everybody present shook hands with them and then Mr. Frankel took them in his car and drove to the stores to gather up the presents, including the following list:

L. J. Harris, license.
Judge Knight, ceremony.
W. T. Cooper, $100 worth of Premium Store tickets.
Wall & McGowan, $200 worth of Premium Store tickets.

CENTENNIAL OF MASONRY

Local Lodge To Celebrate 100th Anniversary Some Time
This Year.

ESTABLISHED IN YEAR 1816

Committee Named To Prepare For The Great Event.

This year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of the Masonic Fraternity in Hopkinsville.
In 1816 the first lodge of F. and A. M., was constituted, and the organization has had a continuous existence, with one or two brief interruptions, ever since. Local masons are preparing to celebrate this unusual event with befitting honors and splendor. It is expected that this event will attract some notable figures in the Masonic world to Hopkinsville on that occasion. A committee of local Masons is now at work on a suitable program.
There are 180 members of the local lodge; resident and non-resident.
Unusual activity and prosperity has marked the lodge in recent months.

The Hopkinsville lodge has contributed some notable figures to Kentucky and national Masonry. Notable among these are R. M. Fairleigh and Warren LaRue Thomas. Dr. R. M.
Fairleigh was Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky in 1876 and 1877. Warren LaRue Thomas who received the degrees in Hopkinsville Lodge No. 37 in 1867, was Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky in 1880 and 1881. He was also at one time Grand Commander of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar of the United States; the only Kentuckian that has ever filled that exalted office.

The time for the celebration has not been definitely fixed, but it will probably be some time in May.

Robinson Trial Begins.

Madisonville, Ky., Feb. 15.—A jury was finally empaneled here Tuesday in the case of the commonwealth against James Robinson, under indictment for the killing of Demmett Woodruff and his clerk, Glover Ford, at Hamby Station in February, 1915.
Although many important witnesses were absent, over one hundred were present at the opening of court today.
Great interest is being manifested in this trial, and the court house was crowded.

The bride is a pretty girl, below a wealth of brown hair. She wore a picture hat and gamely stood the ordeal of being looked at by a big crowd of strangers. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. H. Brown.

The groom is a slender young fellow with dark hair and eyes. He is an orphan and gave his occupation as a farmer.

The young couple returned home them. The rest will be sent to them.

Mr. Leavell told a bunch of girls who attended the wedding that he had some more mules.

STATE AGENT IS COMING

Monday To Help Start Off
The Poultry Club
Work.

MRS. GRAVES IS NOW BUSY

Meeting At H. B. M. A., Monday Night To Which Public Is Invited.

Prof. Arthur S. Chapin, of Lexington, State Agent of the poultry work in Kentucky, will be here next Monday and will meet with the Poultry Improvement Association Monday night. Mr. Chapin is in McCracken county this week, where a county organization similar to the one here has been formed. There he visited the schools at several places in the county, lecturing on the poultry club work.

Mrs. Eloise Graves, who is in charge of this work here, has assumed her duties and Mr. Chapin will assist her in starting off the work. Clubs are already being organized and the White Wyandotte breed has been selected for development by the boys and girls.

Not less than 15 nor more than 45 eggs will be issued to each member and the price will not exceed $1.00 for a setting of 15.

Members of the Improvement Association, or others who wish to raise Wyandottes, can obtain eggs through the association, by sending $1 per setting to J. W. Stowe, Treas., Hopkinsville. These eggs have been contracted for in 100 lots and are from reliable breeders of pure stock of popular strains. Chickens hatched from these eggs will of course not be allowed to compete with those bred by the children.

There are already several breeders of White Wyandottes in the county, notably Mr. Norman Melton, Mrs.
C. R. Adams, Mrs. G. E. Brewer and Mrs. H. A. Minty.

The meeting at the H. B. M. A., Monday night is open to the public.
Mr. Chapin and Mrs. Nelson will be present and much interesting information will be imparted about the scope of the new work about to begin.

ISSUES HIS OWN LICENSE

County Clerk Lucian Harris to Wed Sister of County Judge Knight.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs.
M. E. Knight, County Clerk Lucian J. Harris and Miss Ruth Knight will be united in marriage. Rev. Lewis Powell, of the Methodist church, will be the officiating minister. It will be a quiet home wedding, with only in-imate friends and relatives present.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Harris will depart on the L. & N. train at 5:32, for a brief Southern trip. Upon their return home in a few days they will be at home at 1537 South Virginia street, making their home with Mrs. Knight.

The bride is one of a family of seven sisters, all noted for their beauty and intelligence. They are sisters of County Judge J. Walter Knight. The present bride is the youngest of the family and until recently was secretary to her brother, Judge Knight.
She is a charming girl of a rare type of blonde beauty and is as bright as she is pretty.

The groom's friends were beginning to fear that he would soon be classed as a confirmed bachelor, though still on the shady side of Dr.
Osler's deadline, but his policy of watchful waiting has proven to be a wise one and his reward entitles him to the congratulations of all. He is a popular young official and has friends on all sides, who will wish him and his lovely bride a double share of happiness.

GERMANS TAKE BRITISH TRENCH

ELKS ENJOY
A FEAST

Banquet Followed By Oratory and Much Fun and Merriment.

UNDERWOOD TOASTMASTER

And Sustained His Reputation as a Brilliant Master of Ceremonies.

The open session of the Elk's lodge Tuesday night, proved to be an enjoyable affair.

At the regular session Mr. R. Lee Cayce was decorated with the antlers, the new ritual form being carried out by the officers without a hitch.

On behalf of Past Exalted Ruler L.
H. Davis, C. R. Clark formally presented to the lodge the memorial and official tablets presented as a memorial to the late H. M. Dalton. The memorial tablets have room for 160 names of members, only 34 names now being on one of them. The official tablet in the opposite end of the room has the names of 16 Past Exalted Rulers, 8 former trustees and 17 present officers. Tablet supplies are provided for adding and changing names. The memorial tablets have the names carved in them. The names on the other are in raised gold letters. Mr. Clark's speech was a beautiful tribute to the deceased members, to Mr. Dalton and to the devoted brother whose love and loyalty prompted the generous donation.

Speaking for the lodge, Judge J.
T. Hanbery accepted the gifts in an address of touching appropriateness, grace and beauty of diction. Judge Hanbery is always a pleasing speaker, and he was at his best.

The lodge then adjourned and the members repaired to the dining rooms, where Nick Stadelman and Sam Ficken were found ready to serve a bountiful meal of good things to eat.

The banquet once disposed of, that prince of toastmasters, Tom Underwood, took charge and turned on a flow of oratory that lasted until 11 o'clock.

Speeches were made by Claude
Clark, Chas. M. Meacham, Dr. M. W.
Williams, Ira D. Smith, Geo. E. Lackey, Joe Slaughter, Malcolm Frankel, T. L. Morrow and Judge J. T. Han-bery. It is hard to tell what they said.

In Miss Knight's Honor.

Miss Ruth Knight, who is to be married to Mr. L. J. Harris this afternoon, was the guest of honor at a most enjoyable "Miscellaneous Shower," which was given Monday evening by Misses Mabel Wilson and Lottie Bouldin, at Miss Wilson's home on North Main street. The decorations, place cards, etc., all evidenced the Valentine spirit, and gifts for the prospective bride came in a shower from three large hearts, in the center of the dining table, which were drawn apart by ribbons. Each guest fished in a "Sea of Matrimony" for fortunes written in heart shaped booklets and also wrote receipts in a nicely bound book, which was afterwards presented to the guest of honor. A delicious salad course and mints were served.

Cause of Much Trouble.

The calf over which R. L. Faulkner and T. B. Dowell contended for the ownership in Circuit Court, and which was awarded to Faulkner, was sold to the highest bidder at the courthouse door Monday. It was purchased by Lucien Moore for $30.25.
While it was going through the courts costs accumulated amounting to about $300.—Adair County News.

MANY OF DEFENDERS KILLED

French Attempt to Regain Lost Area in Champagne Are Repulsed.

Switching their offensive from the Artois and Champagne regions in France to the Belgian sector around Ypres held by the British, the Germans have smashed their way by an artillery bombardment and infantry attacks into a British front line trench over a distance of between 600 and 800 yards. Berlin gives the distance as 800 yards and the British official communication, in admitting the gain, asserts that it was on a front of about 600 yards. Berlin says that a majority of the defenders of the trench were killed and that one officer and several dozens of soldiers were taken prisoners.

In the Artois region between Lens and Bethune the crater of a mine blown up by the Germans was occupied by them, while the French guns have been busy shelling German organizations in the neighborhood of the road to Lille. The French also bombarded German positions north of Vic-sur-Aisne and to the northeast of Soissons, and in the Argonne exploded a mine and occupied the crater.

In Champagne, Berlin asserts, French infantry attacks to regain lost positions north of Tahure were repulsed, as likewise was a similar attack on the Vosges near Ober-Sept.

The Italians are still using their guns and infantry in attempts to retake from the Austro-Hungarians the positions recently captured on Monte Rombo, but all attempts have been repulsed with heavy losses, according to Vienna.

The Russians are still on the offensive against the Turks in the Caucasus region, but Constantinople reports their attacks have been halted by counter attacks. In Mesopotamia, the situation around Kutle-Amara and Fekkieh, where the British are operating against the Turks, is unchanged.

The German reply, accepting one of the two changes suggested by Secretary Lansing, with respect to the Lusitania controversy, but proposing a new wording for the other, has been forwarded to Washington.

Victim of Malady Confined to Her Room For Two

confined to her room for the past two years. Mrs. Rives was formerly a Landy and was reared in Stewart county, Tenn. She was a member of the Methodist church. She is survived by her husband and one sister, Mrs. Bettie Moore, of Memphis.

Her funeral services were held at the residence yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Lewis Powell, and the interment took place in Riverside Cemetery.

COLLAR BUTTON SAVED LIFE

Either Carpenter Had Remarkable Experience or He Had More Than a Shade on Ananias.

The ancient Carpenter held a small object between the thumb and first finger of his left hand and pointed at it impressively with the index finger of his right hand.

"For this little article," he exclaimed, "I wouldn't take a farm."
As the ancient Carpenter is the acknowledged verisimilitude champion of the Curbstone club, the other members gathered about him to hear his latest effort.

"Looks to me like a collar button," the fat plumber observed.

"And so it is."

"What is so valuable about it?"

"It saved my life once."

"How?"

"It was when I became lost in the Great North woods."

"Were you ever lost in the Great North woods?"

"I should say I was; for over two weeks, and without a thing to eat in my knapsack."

"How did you manage to survive?"

"That's where this trinket comes in."

"Indeed?"

The ancient Carpenter gazed affectionately on the little object in his hand as he replied, amidst breathless silence:

"Yes, the little bit of bone saved my life. For two long weeks I didn't have a thing to eat but collar-button soup."

The club members, as in one voice fervently exclaimed:

"Poor old Ananias!"—Youngstown

PLAYING CARDS LONG IN USE

Their Origin Lost in Obscurity—Have Been Put to a Great Variety of Uses.

The origin of playing cards is lost in obscurity. They are generally assigned to the Orient, but they are now almost universal in currency and popularity. The backs of old English cards were generally plain, and thus it was that when paper was scarce or expensive, old cards were too useful to be destroyed. They were, on the contrary, used for various purposes.

Thus they are often found in the bindings of old books, where they were preserved. The old cards were also sometimes cut up for paper dolls.
They were also used as cards of invitation and as visiting cards. Thackeray refers to this in "Henry Esmond."

The earliest examples of wood cuts were intended for playing cards. They antedate the famous St. Christopher wood cut that is sometimes credited with being the earliest.

In the olden days playing cards, instead of knitting, were used by spectators in playhouses as an amusement while waiting for the performance to begin.

Such widely differing materials as silver, leather, paper, wood, parchment, cardboard, deerskin and even buffalo hide have all been used in making playing cards.

The Japanese Woman.

The Japanese woman exists primarily for and in the family. We still adhere to the old way of thinking that her natural habitat is the home, and that her appearance at the polls is as unnatural as on the battlefield. Let it be far from me to give an impression, already too prevalent abroad and at home, that we look upon women only as cogs in the machinery of the kitchen or as mere puppets and ornaments in the parlor, writes Doctor Nitobe in the Japanese Nation. The personality of the fair sex is not as clearly recognized among us as it ought to be; but I am confident that it will come with more general enlightenment of public conscience. As it is at present, the aim of female education is to make "a good wife and a wise mother," a stereotyped shib-boleth on the lips of all educators and of the nation, circumscribing the end and aim of woman's life. According to this doctrine, it is not as person, but as wife and mother, that woman is to be educated.

Infection Through Cigar Cutters.

When it is recognized how easily the cigar cutter may be the means of spreading infection, and infection of a dangerous nature, the days of this article of convenience will be numbered. To illustrate: a person will often, after he has first held his cigar in his mouth, step to the counter and put his cigar into the cutter. This thoughtless yet dangerous habit is so common that it can be witnessed time after time at every cigar stand. Undoubtedly it has been one of the principal means of spreading infection among those who smoke cigars, and it is high time that an agent so potent for harm was abolished.—American

Azteca Favored Turquoise.

At the time of the Spanish conquest under Cortez, the Aztecs of old Mexico employed turquoise and "chalchicuiltli," a similar stone of greenish hue, in many of their ceremonies. These Spaniards, entering the region now occupied by New Mexico and Arizona, found the turquoise there also held in high regard, and recent excavations in the ancient pueblos and cliff dwellings of these states have revealed many turquoise ornaments which reflect

BENEFIT IN DAILY TUBBING

Required for Proper Preservation of Health and Looks—Turkish Bath Works Wonders.

It would be wrong to prescribe hot water baths for all the world of women, for there are undoubtedly conditions when they would be harmful, is the assertion made by a prominent physician. But daily tubbing, in water of some temperature or other is required for looks and health, and if the heart is in good condition, the benefits of the hot tub are undeniable.
So the long dead beauties of ancient Greece and Rome kept themselves fair, and so the beauty of today builds up her looks when she finds they are beginning to wane with time or a fevered life. Weak woman anxious for their looks crowd the Turkish bath, boiling and steaming away complexion hurts, rejuvenating muscles, lightening their bodies of superfluous flesh, soothing their nerves. And if they are used to such baths, or to some other preferred kind, they feel as fit as race horses for a week afterward.

Some medical facts concerning the usual effects of the hot or cold bath give this illuminating information:
The hot bath facilitates and stimu-lates the natural combustion processes of the body; the cold bath, to produce the same results, lavishes just four times the same amount of energy.
The cold bath is not sufficiently cleansing for the health of the skin, and when there is a predisposition to skin troubles the chilly water tends to increase them. The process called "hardening," which consists in submitting one's system to the shock of cold plunges, is thought, too, the worst thing in the world for any but the most vigorous constitutions.

SOMETHING TO BE ACQUIRED

Possession of Good Taste Is Almost Entirely a Matter of Assiduous Cultivation.

If we would possess good taste we must take pains about it. We must study models, we must follow examples, we must compare methods, and (above anything else) we must crucify the natural man. If there is one thing to be dreaded in these matters it is what is called the unaided intelligence of the masses. A crudely colored oleograph of the Albert memorial may give pleasure to an unaided intelligence, but is that pleasure to be compared in depth of satisfaction with that which is afforded when the educated eye feasts upon the nature-interpreting canvas of a great artist?

All, I think, are agreed about the study of the models; of the things which are attested:
We may then, I think, assume that the best way of telling a good book from a bad one is to make yourself as well acquainted as you can with some of the great literary models. Do not be frightened at them. They afford the widest choice; they are all for moods. There is no need to like them all alike.—Augustine Birrell.

How Land Work Affects Climate.

The character of climates is variously affected by the presence or absence of trees and other vegetation.
In a British association address, Sir Charles P. Lucas noted that climates became both hotter and colder when the surface of the earth has been bare by the cutting down of trees; they become drier or moister with the destruction or planting of trees; and healthfulness or unhealthfulness may be determined by the removal or retaining of the forests. The Canadian northwest is cited as an example.
Broken or plowed land does not retain snow and ice like the unbroken prairie surface, but it is more reten-tive of moisture and the heat of the sun. As a result there has been perceptible agricultural improvement of the climate, with an extension of the wheat belt considerably farther north than formerly. Lord Strathcona believed that the rails and telegraph lines of the Canadian Pacific railway brought some change even before the coming of the settlers, an increase in dew and moisture having been quite evident near the railway.

Sympathy Is Great Need.

A blight which often falls upon the souls of men who have studied long and perhaps bear learned titles is the blight of a narrow and ungenial view of life. They end at the barred window, and not at an open doorway. Sympathy puts the crown upon the head of the educated man. He has a fellow-feeling for all men, because his wide experience of life has enabled him to understand them. Mingled in this sympathetic attitude of the educated man is humility, that grows out of knowledge. He stands with Newton on the shore, aware of the wide, un-attempted sea. He knows that the corner of knowledge where he works, though but a corner, is yet related to all learning and all places where others are at work.

Censoring "Romeo and Juliet."

Speaking of "Romeo and Juliet," what would an official censor say of it if it were put in the movies? According to an amusing skit in the Moving Picture World, his remarks would include this:
"Cut out Juliet. Here is a girl just in her teens conducting herself in a most unbecomingly manner. . . . There are too many street brawls. Reduce these to a flash of about ten feet. The board has frequently announced its disapproval of the administration of sleeping potions."

Arnatto or annatto, as it is commonly called (Bixa orellana), grows wild and in abundance in the Port Li-mon district of Costa Rica, but no one there has ever attempted to develop this rich natural resource into an industry, and the trees have never been planted or cultivated, nor has the fruit ever been gathered for commercial purposes. Judging from its natural growth, there is no doubt that it could be cultivated and gathered with good profit.

Democratic Triumph.

The walking-stick, as we know it at present, gained its popularity in France during the eighteenth century, when it came to be carried by rich people who had no right to wear a sword. The dandies twirled a thin bamboo cane in their fingers, but the great financiers—who had considerable influence at that time—made the stick a fashionable addition to their wardrobe, and sometimes paid as much as 10,000 crowns for one. This carrying of a walking-stick was regarded as a democratic triumph over the nobility, who refused the commoners the right to wear a sword.—London Chronicle.

WRITER MUST HAVE STIMULUS

Distinction is Pointed Out Between the Interpretative and the Creative Artist.

This dogma that ideas have no place in a novel is poisonous nonsense that ought not to be spread in a society where the mind is unnaturally receptive because it is fatigued by the contemplation of horror. An artist who is inspired to creation not by ideas but only by the stimulus of wild external adventure is an interpretative rather than a creative artist. As a dancer must wait for the music, so he must wait for loud events to give a tune for the movements of his imagination. As soon as Rudyard Kipling no longer saw from his window little brown men walking light and sinister like carnivores in the molten Indian sunlight, but looked out instead on the pump and three geese on the village green, his mind refused to dance. It is long since Joseph Conrad left the sea, and his imagination no longer gets its rhythm from the storms. But the man in whose brain ideas circle upwards to the truth has the rhythm of their flight and the adventure of their quest perpetually within him. They are visitants that every artist must harbor if he wants to be permanently in communion with the mind of the world.—The New Republic.

Efforts Not Appreciated.

Betsy Jane had been blessed with a baby sister, which was as satisfactory as could be for a time. The baby was a nice one, and Betsy did not say a word against her, even if baby did have a pug nose. As Betsy grew older and could be trusted with the baby, she was gradually shifted to duty as day nurse. This interfered with her arrangements, and was not so satisfactory.

One afternoon Betsy's mother heard the baby crying more lustily than usual. She wondered if Betsy Jane had deserted her charge. Rushing into the yard, she found Betsy waving at a girl in the next square.

"Push the go-cart, Betsy Jane, and keep the baby quiet," admonished the mother.

"Push nothing," exclaimed Betsy Jane, resuming her task. "I'm tired of pushing. She doesn't appreciate anything!"

GIRL A SKILLED ENGINEER

Young Englishwoman Said to Show Remarkable Proficiency in Profession She Has Taken Up.

One of the most remarkable things in the replacing of men's labor by women's which is going on today is the great popularity which mechanical work seems to be winning for itself among women. From Ireland comes the account of a young girl just twenty years old, who is doing the work of a skilled electrical engineer. She is Miss May Traill, the daughter of Mr. William T. Traill, C. E., a well-known engineer, who was the constructor of one of the first electric tramways—the Giants' Causeway and Portrush Electric tramway—which was opened in 1883.

Miss Traill, who studied horticulture at Studley college, Warwickshire, exhibited her gift for mechanics while still a student, and as a result was made chauffeur of the college motor lorry. When this was purchased by the government she drove it from Studley to London, and subsequently was placed on the staff of the college in full charge of the electric light and power installation. She has set free a man who is now making torpedoes.

Pat Cassidy purchased a new automobile, and while still inexperienced in the handling of it he drove down one of the crowded thoroughfares of the city. Coming to a crossing where traffic was held up, he lost control of the car and ran squarely into a handsome limousine. The crowd which gathered found the situation amusing, and to add to Pat's discomfort, the crossing policeman, a big Irishman, commenced to berate him. "Since when did you learn to drive a car?" demanded the officer. "What's yer name?" "Cassidy," answered Pat. "So?" said the policeman, interestedly. "And where are you from?" "County Clare," said Pat. "Say," said the cop, "how the devil did that fellow back into you?"—Chicago Journal.

"Why Swear, Dear? Use 'Gets-It' for Corns!"

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

"Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I've told you several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and

"You Wouldn't Lose Your Temper, John, if You Used 'Gets-It' for Those Corns!" contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It'. It's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses."

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c, a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Hopkinsville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by L. L. Elgin and J. O. Cook.

WATTERSON'S TRIBUTE TO ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

In fitting commemoration of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the following tribute to the great American as voiced by Hon. Henry Watterson in an address before the Lincoln Union at the Chicago Auditorium February 12, 1905 seems decidedly appropriate:

"Born as lowly as the Son of God, in a hovel; reared in penury, squalor, with no gleam of light or fair surroundings; without graces, actual or acquired; without name or fame or official training; it was reserved for this strange being, late in life, to be stretched from obscurity, raised to supreme command at a supreme moment, and entrusted with the destiny of a nation.

"The great leaders of his party, the most experienced and accomplished public men of the day, were made to stand aside, were sent to the rear, while this fantastic figure was led by unseen hands to the front and given the reins of power. It is immaterial whether we were for him or against him; wholly immaterial. That, during four years, carrying with them such a weight of responsibility as the world never witnessed before, he filled the vast space allotted him in the eyes and actions of mankind, is to say that he was inspired by God, for nowhere else could he have acquired the wisdom and the virtue.

"Where did Shakespeare get his genius? Where did Mozart get his music? Whose hand smote the lyre of the Scottish plowman, and saved the life of the German priest? God, God, and God alone; and as surely as these were raised up by God, inspired by God, was Abraham Lincoln; and a thousand years hence, no drama, no tragedy, no epic poem will be filled with greater wonder, or be followed by mankind with deeper feeling than that which tells the story of his life and death."

ALL SHE HAD TO DO

By KEITH KENYON.

It just happened that day that everything had been going to the everlasting bowwows, as Hampden himself expressed it through his clenched teeth. The New York wires were delayed on account of the storm and even on the local line it was almost impossible to get a clear, connected message through.

"Central!" he called. "Central! What's the matter with this wire, anyhow? I've been hanging on to the end of the line for an hour trying to get a number."

"Wires down below Grand Indian," she answered pleasantly. "Kingston does not respond."

Hampden muttered something which sent both places hurtling merrily after Sodom and Gomorrah's fate, and called again.

"Look here. I've got to catch New York tonight before six. It's more than my luck that hangs on it. There's a fellow down there who may commit suicide tonight if he doesn't get my word that things are all right, see? I got a letter—hello, hello! Don't cut me off, please—"

"I'm listening," said Central.

"He thinks he was ruined in a plunge of stock this morning, and I've got over half of his cash safe, see? Pulled it out with my own on yesterday's sales. My wife's sick up here, and I had to come. He thinks I got cold feet and ran away. Now, we've got to get word to him at once that he's all right. You and I have got to put this through or there's going to be one dead boy down there by morning. Take a message, can you, and get it through by telegraph anywhere along the line?"

"Hold the wire. I'll see," said Central.

Hampden held it, frowning out at the trees, crystal white with ice and snow.

"Hello, just a minute, please," she called back. "I think we can get it through by way of Newburgh. Newburgh seems to respond."

Newburgh did respond. The wires that way were all up. When the connection was made, his voice sounded husky to him as he got the office and asked for Ted.

"Why, he's just left, sir," the boy at the switch answered. "Maybe I can catch him in the hall." There was a pause and something seemed to break before Hampden's eyes like a great noiseless skyrocket. His brain grew numb except for the pain through his shoulder and he slipped limply to the floor.

Back in New York, Ted turned moodily from the elevators and followed the boy to the phone booth. His head throbbed with pain. He hated New York, Hampden, fate, everything. All he wanted was to get out of it. Then the girl at the end of the wire held him. Her voice was beautiful, sweet, cheery, most of all full of human interest.

"Hello, is this Mr. Curtis? This is Central at Grand Indian. Long distance reports Mr. Hampden who was calling you falls to respond. I have his message. Ready?"

"Ready," answered Ted eagerly.

"His wife is sick. That is why he was called here suddenly. Wishes me to state that he took your money out of the market yesterday with his own with profit on sales. Over half safe. Come to Grand Indian, New York, at once. Signed, Hampden."

When the night train pulled into Grand Indian, a tall figure in a storm ulster swung off and into the little station. He made straight for the desk, but the ticket agent said the telegraph room was upstairs.

"She lives there," he added. "Miss Hewitt. Just knock on the door. She's up till twelve."

Ted took the narrow stairs in three steps and rapped on the door quickly. He had made up all sorts of speeches on the way to this girl who had given him the word of good cheer, but when the door opened and he saw her standing there, all he could do was to reach out his hand and say:

"I'm Curtis, Ted Curtis. I wanted to thank you for hauling me up here. How's Mr. Hampden?"

"Better." She smiled up at him in the friendliest way. Her white sweater was buttoned close to her chin, and her hair was rumpled as if she had been sleeping, but her eyes were bright and happy as she looked at him. "Sling him up," as Ted himself would have expressed it. "He must have had some sort of a shock following nervous strain, the doctor said. They haven't told his wife yet. They're both coming out of it all right. I called up twice after you left New York to make sure. You see, he had already given his message when he fell, so all I had to do was push it through and get you. Only I did put in for you to come at once."

"All she had to do. Ted simply stared at her. Did she know just what a fool he had been, just the sort of a quilter it was that wrote the letter up to Hampden, just how it had been her call at the end of the wire that had pulled him back to sanity and love of life, the realization that up there in the mountains somewhere there was a girl with a voice like that who could make New York look like thirty cents in the big reckoning."

"I'm going right up to the house now," he said. "I'll get the station hack to pull me through somehow, but I'm coming back to see you."

Sanitation in The Control of Hog Cholera.

Hog cholera is a highly infectious and contagious disease. It should be handled and dealt with like any other contagious disease. It is carried from farm to farm by running water, by dogs and birds and on the shoes of man. Farmers and hog raisers can do a great deal to control and eradicate this disease on their own premises by the observance of scrupulous cleanliness in the care of hogs and by the adoption of simple sanitary measures, and by good hog-farm management.

Co-operate with your neighbors and with the Experiment Station in their efforts to control hog cholera, by the observance of the following simple sanitary measures:

Burn the carcasses of all dead hogs. Isolate and quarantine all sick hogs and all new stock until they show freedom from disease.

Any hog off feed should be quarantined and watched.

Clean and disinfect your hog houses.

Scatter freshly slaked lime about hog houses and hog lots once a week. Rake up the dung and spent lime and use it to fertilize your fields. Lime is one of the cheapest disinfectants and one of the best fertilizers.

Provide clean, dry quarters for your hogs. A good hog house does not cost much.

Do not pasture your hogs by a running stream. Hog cholera is carried for miles by running water.

Give your hogs a vermifuge to remove worms. A good vermifuge consists of:

Santonin, 2½ grains.
Arecia nut, 1 drachm.
Calomel, 2 grains.
Sodium bicarbonate, 2 drachms.

This preparation can be obtained from any pharmacist. Another good vermifuge is a pint of turpentine to a barrel of slop. Starve all animals forty-eight hours before giving the vermifuge.

For lice, use any of the coal tar dips or spray your hogs with an emulsion of crude oil or kerosene.

Feed properly balanced rations.

Avoid all patent medicines. These are worthless as remedies for hog cholera.

Do not visit farms on which there is hog cholera, and do not allow strangers in your hog lots. Man is responsible for 25 per cent. of the outbreaks of this disease.

Keep birds and dogs away from your hog lots.

Do away with filthy hog wallows. To provide pure stock water, but a barrel of lime or five pounds of copers in the pond.

If you need hog cholera serum, or if you feel in need of further advice regarding the care of hogs, address, DR. ROBERT GRAHAM, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Kentucky.

SWEEPING CHANGES IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS

International Committee Announces Its Decision.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 16.—A sweeping revision of the uniform Sunday school lessons issued by the international Sunday school lesson committee which have been used for many years with practically no change, was announced last night by Dr. J. R. Sampey at a meeting here of Sunday school workers from all sections of North America, who are attending the conferences being held by the International Sunday School association.

Dr. Sampey is the chairman of the uniform lesson subcommittee of the International Sunday school lesson committee. The uniform Sunday school lessons as they have been issued for many years have been primarily adapted to adult class work. The revised system of lessons will be drawn in such a way as to provide for their easy adaptation to all the branches of Sunday school work and these adaptations will be indicated plainly. This will, it is said, make easier the problem of grading the work of Sunday schools too small to use the series of graded lessons by the International Sunday school lessons committee.

The series of lessons will be inaugurated Jan. 1, 1918, and will run for a cycle of eight years, instead of in six-year cycles, as formerly.

LYCEUM NUMBER

Montraville Wood, Scientist, to Give Unusual Program.

Montraville M. Wood, who appears in the big Redpath series at the Tabernacle to-night, makes a model of the Panama canal.

At the Panama canal celebration in San Francisco in 1915, he made a complete model of the canal 2,000 ft. long. Three boats 20 ft. long plied the waters of this canal and automatically opened and closed the gates and filled and emptied the locks. Mr. Wood did the engineering and took out all the patents on this model covering the automatic working of the same.

Mr. Wood will demonstrate the gyroscope, the monorail-car and the ultra-violet ray. The demonstrations are of such a nature that they can be plainly seen from all parts of the auditorium.

One important and amusing feature of the program is the wrestling gyroscope. A gyroscope measuring 24 inches in diameter and weighing 28 pounds is capable of throwing a 200 pound man if he persists in trying to handle it. The gyroscope is set in motion and placed upon the floor standing on edge. Any strong man in the audience is invited to come to the platform and try to tip it over on its side, but is never able to do so.

Miss Allene M. Wood, Prof. Wood's only daughter, who has been his co-worker and assistant for several years, has performed such wonderful work with the ultra-violet ray that they have given her the name "Tamer of Electricity." The ultra-violet ray is produced by taking in alternate current and boosting it to 25,000 volts, requiring one of the most dangerous currents known today.

COMMISSION GOVERN-

MENT UNPOPULAR.

Mr. Metzger, of Newport, introduced a bill, which is to repeal the charter of second-class cities operating under the commission form of government. Mr. Metzger said that he had introduced the bill by request of Newport people who were not satisfied with the operation of the commission form in that city.

There is some difference of opinion among lawyers in the House as to whether the repeal of this law will abolish all of the present charters, or whether it will merely prevent other second-class cities from operating under the commission form.

Howse Loses Out.

The Tennessee Supreme Court upheld the ouster decrees by which Mayor Howse, of Nashville, and Mayor Crump, of Memphis, were suspended from office, but decided that the decree in Crump's case did not apply to the term beginning January 1. A new ouster case may be started for the new term.

Is Work on The New Methodist Church.

The time for laying the corner stone of the new Methodist church next Monday finds the work of erection well advanced. The entire basement is finished and the stone walls are high enough for the windows and doors to be put in place.

The corner stone is not a foundation stone. It will consist in reality of a bronze plate with suitable inscriptions, which will replace a wooden block placed in the northeast corner of the building temporarily, a foot or two from the ground.

The formal exercises of the occasion will begin Sunday and be concluded Monday. The program will be announced later.

BERT WING PAROLED

FROM PENITENTIARY.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 16.—Bert Wing, who voluntarily returned a year ago to the Reformatory from which he escaped in 1909, while serving a life term for killing his wife, has been paroled by the Board of Prison Commissioners.

Bert Wing was the black sheep of a prominent Muhlenberg family. His brother Rumsey Wing, died while Minister to Argentina. Bad habits and associates were the downfall of Bert, who followed his wife from St. Louis to Louisville in 1893 and killed her there. He was a trusty at the prison when he made his escape and nothing was heard of him for six years; but one day he walked into Warden Wells' office and told who he was. He was getting old and he was tired of dodging imaginary pursuit.

Former Warden George Chinn has offered Bert a home. He has no near relatives living.

WILL DENY PARDONS

IN ALL LIQUOR CASES.

Intends to Uphold County Unit Law, Declares Gov. Stanley.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 16.—Gov. Stanley has written to County Attorney F. B. Martin, of Graves county, stating that he would not grant executive clemency to persons in local option territory charged with violating the local option law.

Martin had written to Gov. Stanley stating that he understood that Harry Wimberly of that county, who he said had been fined $250 in ten indictments on charges of violating the local option law, would make application for a pardon. Martin said Wimberly had been indicted sixteen times.

Gov. Stanley said that not only had the people of the State adopted the county unit law as the best system of handling the liquor question, but that both political parties in this State had unequivocally declared for the county unit law, and that he considered the law binding to the extent that he would not grant pardons on charges of its violation.

CRIMINAL ALWAYS IN CHAINS

First Act of Deceit Invariably Must Be Followed Up by a Succession of Lies.

A strange characteristic of crookedness was brought out by the young man who confessed to a long string of forgeries, committed in various cities. His logical story gave a striking explanation for the wrong doing which brought him to disgrace at the prime of life.

His first forgery, done at the instigation of a superior, was not intended to bring him any benefit, and it did not. As the tool of another's criminality he was trapped. Instead of facing the consequences he fled. His guilt was on his heels and he was compelled repeatedly to jump from city to city. A forged check each time supplied him with the means.

In graphic fashion the sequence of results was laid bare by the prisoner, relieved when he was at last overtaken. What happened to him happens in some form to everyone who takes liberties with his own conscience. The smallest deceit is a costly expedient, because it must be followed up with a succession of lies in many instances. The man who departs from his own code finds that he is being pushed on in a course of wrongdoing in spite of himself. Partly through habit, partly through the law of cause and effect, one slip necessitates another and another until disaster is complete.

The momentum of devilry is a difficult force to combat.

FINALLY GOT HIS HEADGEAR

But Old Gentleman Had to Call on "Nature" to Prove His Right to Property.

The cloakroom man at a large restaurant fell suddenly ill and a substitute took his place. The new man was told not to give out any coats or hats without proper identification, and so, when an old gentleman demanded his hat and explained that he had lost his check, there was a great to-do on the part of the substitute.

"But that's my hat; the shabby, brown one," said the old gentleman. "It's got my initials in it—F. X. G."

The substitute looked inside the hat and, sure enough, the initials were there.

"Humph!" he said, suspiciously. "You might have seen these initials somehow."

"But here they are on my shirt, too," said the old gentleman, unbuttoning his waistcoat. "See? F. X. G."

"You might have stolen the shirt," said the substitute.

"Good heavens!" shouted the old gentleman, and he tore open his shirt and undervest. "Maybe this will satisfy you? Hey?" And he pointed to the letters F. X. G., tattooed on his breast in blue.

The substitute stared at the tattooing closely; then at last he handed over the hat. As he did so he said, reluctantly:

"Well, since Nature wrote those initials on your skin, I guess they must be yours, for a fact."

How Prussia Was Reforested.

There was no need of celebrating Arbor day in Prussia in the days when Friedrich Wilhelm I was king, for that monarch had a plan all his own by which he replenished the forests and kept the country well supplied with fruit trees.

According to Das Buch fur Alle, the king, having observed that there was a great dearth of fruit and oak trees in Prussia, and not being willing to undertake the tremendous expense of reforesting the country himself, issued an order to all clergymen that, after June 21, 1720, they should refuse to perform any marriage ceremony unless the groom could produce evidence that he had just planted six fruit trees and an equal number of oaks. If it was in winter, or in the middle of a dry summer, when plants would not grow, the groom had to produce and lay aside a sum of money sufficient to cover the cost of the trees, and promise to plant the required number when fall or spring came.

The edict worked wonders. The next generation in Prussia had no lack of fruit and oak trees.—Youth's Companion.

First English Music Printing.

In England the first known attempt at music printing was in 1495 by Wynken de Worde, at Westminster. A book in the British museum proves that florid music was printed in England in 1530. The typography is identical with that of Petrucci.

There was little or no improvement in the principle of setting up movable music type for some time. Nothing could be more excellent than the book printed by Worde attested to above, but that was the result of double printing, and both ancient and modern printers who have tried the method have found its disadvantages so great that they have abandoned the process.

Helpful Fable.

Once there was a village editor who wrote a stinging hint item about the misbehavior of an anonymous "certain man." Ten different men whom the editor had not theretofore suspected of misbehavior were so certain they were the certain man that they all came up to the office and beat him.

Moral—From this we should learn that when we denounce a certain man we should be certain that we are not taking in too much territory.—Kansas City Star.

HOME MEMORIES MEAN MUCH

Duty of Parents to Give Children Something Which They May Recall With Pleasure.

Happy home memories to look back upon is a gift which every mother should plan as definitely to give to her child as she plans definitely to give him an education, sound health and good judgment.

First of all, then, it seems to me we owe our children memories of a beautiful home; a home of simple common sense; a well-ordered home. This would seem to me a child's very first right.

And next, it seems to me, he has the right to memories of beauty in the home. Children are far more susceptible to beauty than many of us realize, and certainly the effect of beauty on the child's life can hardly be overestimated.

Further, home to be a delightful memory must have the beauty of sociability. It must be a place where people come to share its benefits, and its ideals. That home can hardly be called a home which does not open its doors often.

Besides being a healthful place, a beautiful place, a sociable home, if it is to afford us enriching memories, must be an intimate and sympathetic place, possessing that finer intimate sociability which grows up between the true home and its inmates.

In all right living and thinking we are partakers of a kind of immortality, for death does not touch these things. —Laura Spencer Porter in Mother's Magazine.

PLAN VACATION FOR HEALTH

Period of Release From Toil Should Be Wisely Spent, or It Is Worse Than Useless.

Ostensibly you go on a vacation to find or to improve your health, remarks the Philadelphia Evening Ledger. But how many achieve it? To most of us a vacation is a respite from toil, with a license to overeat, oversleep and overdo everything that we take in normal doses during the period of hard labor. Who is there who hasn't returned from a vacation spoiled by indigestion, excessive play or a lazy indulgence in doing nothing, with the conviction that the pleasures and increased health he expected to find were a delusion?

The best vacation is not so much freedom from the necessity of working as it is a change, new scenes, new people, new ideas, all taken in moderation. As such they are a tonic. When you start forth, just to avoid the necessity of calling in a physician to diagnose your ailment, take the advice of Jonathan Swift and consult "the three best doctors in the world"—Doctor Diet, Doctor Quiet and Doctor Merryman. They will tell you to eat moderately of digestible foods, to let alcoholic liquors alone and then to remember, as Solomon said, that "a merry heart doeth good like a medicine."

While your sins must be atoned for in the next world, you have to pay for your follies also in this one.

Australian Afforestation.
 Afforestation was the subject of an address by Sir Ronald Munro Ferguson at Adelaide, South Australia, recently. In the course of his speech he said: "I have been much impressed with the variety of the hardwoods grown in Australia. I believe that in Australia you have a larger variety of the best hardwoods than exists in any other country in the world, but much of it has been wasted. In many instances these hardwoods have been used when cheaper and softer timber would answer the same purpose. Australia has an advantage in timber-growing—a forest matures in thirty years, whereas it takes sixty years to reach the same stage of maturity in Europe. The Californian pine grows splendidly here, while it will not grow at all in the north of the British Isles. The total area reserved for forests in South Australia is 154,232 acres and, besides gradually adding to the reserves, the government have established a school of forestry at the Adelaide university for the scientific training of foresters."

Got Information Asked For.
 John Muir, California's naturalist and explorer, related the following story of Col. D. C. Collier:

While riding along San Diego, Cal., Mr. Collier came upon a dilapidated corral fence which hung a sign bearing the following announcement: "For Sale." A bright-looking small boy sat on the fence beside the sign and Mr. Collier asked him: "When does this ranch sell?"

The small boy glanced up quickly at Mr. Collier, smiled and said: "When some sucker comes along who can raise the wind." Mr. Collier doffed his sombrero, thanked the lad for his information and rode on his way feeling greatly enlightened.

Kills Crow; $1 in Its Beak.
 The crow has long been notorious for its kleptomaniac tendencies and known to steal anything, without regard to its value, but from the construction camp of the Chico Construction company, near Shippee, south of this city, comes a story of a crow that was discriminating enough to steal something of value.

John Schonlow, foreman for the company, went hunting. He fired into a flock of crows, killing one. When Schonlow picked up the bird he found tightly clasped in its beak a one dollar bill.—Chico Dispatch Sacramento Bee.

Speechless For Thanks.

Mena, Ark.—"I find Cardui to be all you represent," writes Mrs. H. B. York, of this city. "I suffered from womanly ailments, for nearly two years, before I tried Cardui. I have been so relieved since taking it. I cannot say enough in its praise. It has done me a world of good, and I recommend Cardui to all women." Cardui is over 50 years old, and the demand is greater today than ever. Cardui is the standard, tonie medicine, for women of every age. Would you like to be well and strong? Then take Cardui. Its record shows that it will help you. Begin today. Why wait?—Advertisement.

Clinics for Criminals.

Clinics for criminals are becoming recognized as a valuable adjunct to the city courtroom. Physical defects are frequently responsible for the perpetration of crime, and remedial measures may bring about a complete moral change. In Chicago a persistent offender was recently examined by the psychopathic institute connected with the Cook county juvenile court. He was found to be suffering from severe, but unsuspected, eye strain. When his eyes were treated and he was provided with congenial occupation, his criminal tendencies ceased. A habitual drunkard in Cleveland, who had been sent to prison 93 times in 30 years, was recently given a thorough physical examination, resulting in an operation for a dental disease of long standing. His tendency to drunkenness and disorderly conduct has not been manifested since.

Unlighted Stars.

It is reasonable to assume that the number of stars in space having a temperature so low that their radiations do not affect our eyes or photographic plates is extremely large. That these invisible stars are far more numerous than the luminous stars is suggested by Mr. F. A. Lindeman, who attempts a rough calculation of their relative number, based on the assumption that new stars (novae) are due to collisions. He concludes that there are about four thousand times as many dark stars as bright ones.

Doctors Unite in Recommending The Bond Issue.

The Christian County Medical Society, in session assembled, realizing that the welfare and prosperity of the people of Christian county, in a large measure depend on a good system of well built roads, and also that the proposed issue of bonds is the only logical and economical method of taking advantage of both State and Federal aid, and procuring a system of roads which is most to be desired, we hereby heartily endorse the proposed bond issue, and pledge our aid and support to said movement.

We further recognize the wisdom of having a body of eight Commissioners, selected from among the best citizens of the county, to look after and supervise the expenditure of the proceeds of said bonds, and pledge to them our hearty co-operation and support.

Owensboro Firm Gets It.

THE MARCH AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

In the March American Magazine are capital short stories and special articles. There is also an interest picture section printed by the new Alco Gravure process. "The World Is Mine," by Albert W. Atwood describes the financial future opening before the United States and gives the opinions of our foremost financiers and business men concerning it. "Believing and Doing" by Emerson Hough tells the true story of what is perhaps the most remarkable college in the world. For the series entitled "The Glory of the States" George Ade has a characteristic article on Indiana, the state that has won eminence "without acquiring a double chin or wearing a wrist watch." "Getting and Holding a Job" by Hugh S. Fullerton tells how many progressive business concerns are invoking the aid of science in hiring their employees. James Hays, Jr., has an interesting article on Ex-Senator Burton, of Ohio, the man with a miracle memory.

One of the most striking stories in this issue is "The Conqueror," by Dorothy Canfield. There is also good and varied fiction by Alice Garland Steele, Sophie Kerr, Ellis Parker Butler, who gives us a new "Swatty" story and Olive Higgins Prouty, who continues her novel "The Fifth Wheel."

PADUCAH SATURDAY

Basket Ball Team Will Play Away From Home This Week.

The local High School five will have a hard row to hoe this week. On Friday they will meet the Paducah High School at Paducah and on Saturday night they will play Henderson High School at Henderson. Both of these teams will be very hard to beat and if the locals should win both of these games they would be entitled to be called the champions.

At Paducah the floor on which this game will be played is reported to be 72 ft. long and 18 ft. wide. This will put the local quintet at a great disadvantage. However the team is going, intending to give Paducah a tough fight.

The Henderson High School team have been the champions of the state for several years and to beat this bunch on their own floor would be a feat that has not been accomplished in years.

Prof. G. C. Koffman will referee both games at Paducah and Henderson. Mr. Steinhauser will assist him at Paducah and Mr. Myers at Henderson.

Those who will make the trip will be: Coach Mallory, Manager Tandy, Prof. Koffman, Capt. Breathitt, Roberts, Brown, Torian, Moseley, Draper, Bruunfield and Moss.

Friday night at McLean gym the Freshmen boys will play Eighth grade of McLean School. These teams met some time ago. The Freshmen won, but the Eighth grade has been at work in earnest the last few days and will give the Freshmen's a hard fight. This game will only cost ten cents.

Not Even a "Thank You."

(Milwaukee Sentinel.)

Frank Mercen was selling newspapers. It was a clear, bracing day, and Frank felt happy before the well-dressed man came along.

"Paper?"

The man took the paper, reached in a pocket and handed Frank a $5 gold piece. He passed on.

Young Mercen detected the error at once. He stared at the shining piece for a moment, and was starting after his customer, when another newsboy laid a detaining hand on his arm.

"Say, wait a minute. Wait a minute. You ain't gonna give the shiner back, are ya?"

But Mercen disregarded the tempter's voice. He caught up with the man and made known the mistake.

The man merely said, "Oh," took the coin, drew out a pocketbook and gave the newsboy a nickel, waiting for change. Mercen dropped the four pennies in the man's hand, who thereupon turned on his heel and continued on his way. There was no word or display of gratitude.

"It doesn't pay to be a boob, does it?" grinned Frank's fellow newsboy, when Mercen returned. "Didn't I tell ya?"

Kincheloe As Orator.

The reply of Congressman Kincheloe to that brilliant congressman, Walsh, from Yankee Boston, is worth preserving. It was delivered in a speech on a good roads appropriation bill and was called forth by strictures of the Bostonian on the equitableness of the proposed distribution of the road-building funds. But here is the eloquent retort:

"What is the main objection offered against this bill. It is the one urged by the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Walsh.) He opposes it because he thinks some states perchance would pay a little more of the pro rata of the appropriation authorized by this bill than they should and in return would not receive quite as much of the apportionment as is due them. Is this the circumscribed view that shall be taken on national legislation coming before this congress? For over a hundred years the rural communities have been furnishing New England the raw material which has fed her spindles of industry and made them hum to the tune of prosperity to her people. We were glad to be able to do this. We rejoice with you upon the progress and advancement you have made, and congratulate you on the grandeur of your achievements. We are all proud of the great cities of the East, because they are in America, and thanks to an all-wise Providence, the same flag that is kissed by the sea breezes as it floats over smokey New York and Boston is caressed by the gentle zephyrs of summer in Kentucky and other rural states of this republic. I now want to extend an invitation to my good friend from Boston (Mr.

Walsh) to come and visit old Kentucky. I want him one time to breathe the pure air of the country; to look one time at Heaven's cloudless dome; to gaze with delight one time at the brilliancy of the stars in a smokeless sky; to meet and mingle with her brave, loyal and hospitable people, in a state where chivalry and hospitality are prerequisites to a successful career, where gallantry is the yardstick with which all men are measured and judged, and where pure womanhood is always respected and defended. When the gentleman shall have done this and returned to the "Hub of the Universe," I am satisfied that his views on national legislation will be broadened and his provincial viewpoint will be greatly magnified."

George Ade Defines Indiana.

In the March American Magazine George Ade says:

"Indiana is a composite of steel mills and country clubs, factories and colleges, promoters and professors, stockbreeders and Chautauqua attractions, cornfields and campuses. It grows all the crops and propaganda known to the temperate zone.

"If a high wall could be erected to inclose Indiana the state would continue to operate in all departments, but the outsiders would have to scale the wall in order to get their dialect poetry."

Lincoln Banquet.

Kentucky Republicans Feb. 12 paid their respects to the great emancipator by gathering 525 strong at the Seelbach hotel for a banquet and denouncing Democrats, Democratic doctrines and Democratic administrations of public affairs. Mayor William Hale Thompson and other prominent Republicans of Chicago, were guests of honor at the gathering. Mayor Thompson was the principal speaker at the banquet. He responded to the toast, "Kentucky and Illinois—Their Great Contribution." Other speakers and their subjects were E. T. Franks, of Owensboro, "Was It Worth the Cost?" Edwin P. Morrow, of Somerset, "Patriotism," and Judge Edward C. O'Rear, of Frankfort, "If Lincoln Could Come Back."
